way just now, and Tammany's county ticket is likely to meet with severe treatment at the hands of the factions created by Mayor Gilroy's seizure of the leadership.

will be prepared for the Convention by Mayor Gilroy, Police Commissioners John C. Shechan and James J. Martin. Police Justice Barney Martin, Excise Commissioner Dalton, Corporation Coun-sei Clark, Sheriff Sexton and perhaps one or two others of the faction known as Gilroy's clique, nearly all of whom are office-holders. There may be very little opposition to such a ticket in the Convention. The op-position will come after the candidates I are named and at the polls. This is Gilroy's first campaign boss of Tammany, and if the ticket he selects is snowed under Mr. Gilroy's leadership is apt to come to a sudden Tammany likes a successful lead- ders from the Governor. er, but it has no use for an unsuccessretired while there was still a chance

Now, if Gilroy's ticket can be turned down, his rivals for the leadership ardown, his rivals for the leadership argue, that will mean the end of Gilroy and the beginning of somebody else.

Among Mr. Gilroy's bitter rivals for the leadership of Tammany is County Cerk Henry D. Purroy, and ex-Boss Croker's presnal following in Tammany is with Purroy. It includes such workers as Sullivan, Seally, Boyle, Scannell, Delmour, Shea, Dunn, Featherston, Reilly, Sea-

Flunkett, Dooling, McMahon and Stilling.

County Clerk Purroy and ex-Mayor Grant are not inclined to interfere to save Gliroy from himself at this interesting period. It is said that they have practically agreed between themselves that this is an off year for Tammany stylen, and that while there is very little chance for saving anything from the wreck it would be a good thing to let Gliroy and his clique go down with it. So it is pretty certain that they will not interfere with Gliroy's plans for a ticket, or work themselves into a perspiration trying to elect it. They may sive it passive support, it is said, but not that active, enthusiastic, rush-around-and-get-out the vote sort that characterized them when Croker was boss.

In view of this condition of affairs. view of this condition of affairs. the union ticket, with the proper man at the head, ought to win in a canter.

Leaders Undecided What to Do on the Third Ticket Question. Snapper organization arrived on time at their offices this morning. William

It to Saturday last a third State ticket was regarded as a certainty. The independents all over the State were suitabled that a demand for a third sits that a demand for a third sit ticket would have been received with such mingled feelings that the leaders are now in a qualdary. It was the intension at yesterday as conference to make an open declaration.

Setter counsels prevailed, however, and hothing will now be done until the earlier question has been submitted to the rank and file of the various organizations.

Maurice J. Power, when seen, said: "I have not been invited to any conference to-day, nor have I attended any of the other conferences. So far as I am concerned on the third State ticket question I will able by the decision of the New York State Democracy's meeting to-morrow night. That is the light which will guide me.

"I am not strongly in favor of putting up a third ticket, It seems to me

Mr. Fairchild added that he would said, "I have not seen Senator Hill today, nor do I expect to see him. Neither Besides the Executive Committee there were present: William R. Grace, ex-Secretary Fairchild, Col. Robert Grier Monroe and Francis M. Scott.

Upon the adjournment of the meeting ex-Secretary Charles S. Fairchild said: "The conference confined itself entirely to the discussion of local candidates on a union ticket. At no time was there any reference to State politics, and the talk which was indulged in was purely informal."

Mr. Francis M. Scott said: "There was a discussion as to the character of a man who should be nominated for the office of Mayor, but no name was mentioned nor personality discussed."

W. R. Grace said: "Our talk was informal, confidential and intense."

fact. The attendance was satisfactory to the management, and consisted mainly of delegations from New York, Boston and the surrounding towns.

The visitors from Gotham appeared to be right at home, so familiar were the figures on the course. The weather was fair, though early in the day somewhat threatening and chilly. The track was in good condition, and fast.

Fred Taral was the star of the day. The great jockey received a tremendous ovation when he came down to the judged stand on Jimmy McLaughlin's Wah Jim in the first race. Mike Bergen also got a good send off.

Joseph J. Burke was presiding judge, and James F. Caldwell handled the flag.

The card was made up of six races, all being well filled, and scratches were very scarce. The steeplechase seemed to provide the most excitement to the out-of-town visitors. The management anticipates a big shipment of horses from Morris Park at the end of that meet-

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1894.

Letters from Citizens Read Before Then He Snatched a Tray of Set Gems and Escaped.

> A daring robbery was committed in Brooklyn at 1 o'clock this afternoon, when a thief snatched a tray full of diamonds from a showcase in avenue, and escaped.

The thief was about forty-five years old, 5 feet 10 inches in height, and wore a sandy mustache closely cropped. He had evidently laid his plans in advance. When he entered Mr. Healey's store. a few minutes before 1 o'clock, there was no one there except the proprietor "I want to get my watch repaired, he said, placing a cheap nickel time plece on the courter.

Healey picked the watch up and took it to his work bench in the rear of the tore

While examining the watch Mr. Healey heard a scuffling noise, and turning around he saw the man dash out of the front door with his arms folded across his breast. Healey hastened to the show case and discovered the loss of the tray of dia-monds and jewelry. He suspected, how-ever, that the robber had accomplices outside, and fearing that they might steal more goods if he left the store he stood in the doorway and shouled for the police.

When an officer arrived the thief was nowhere in sight when an officer arrived the thief was nowhere in sight.

Mr. Healey says the tray contained six rings and two studs. One of the rings was set with ten diamonds and another with six. There were also three solitaires, weighing one and one-half, seven-eighths and two and one-half karats each.

On receiving a report of the rethere.

On receiving a report of the robbery Capt. Hardy, of the Clermont avenue station, detailed a number of detectives and policemen in citizens' clothes to look for the thief, who wore a dark gray cutaway suit and black derby hat.

The police estimate Mr. Healey's loss at $450.
